Packers Storm Back to 24-24 Tie, Lose 38-24

GAME RECAP (GREEN BAY PRESS- GAZETTE)

(BALTIMORE) - The Packers lost a tremendous game of football in Memorial Stadium Sunday afternoon on a tough injury break. The world champion Colts were 38 to 24 winners of the 62-point, 830-yard spectacle that left a crowd of 57,808 - plus millions on TV, gasping for breath. The Packers spotted the Colts a 21 to 0 lead and then brazenly roared back into a 24 to 24 tie in the fourth quarter before the Colts broke loose in the last five minutes. The fierce struggle proved once more that the Packers are worthy contenders alongside the high-powered champions. Baltimore thus moved back into first place in the Western Division with 5-2 while the Packers, with one less game, settled into second with 4-2. The Colts play the Bears, who were idle yesterday, in Chicago next Sunday while the Packers host the Dallas Cowboys. The Packers have experienced replacements in every area but one - the defense backfield and, ironically, that's where they were hurt. Jess Whittenton, the Packers' regular cornerback, suffered a pulled muscle in his leg in the warmup Saturday and then went out after the first series. He returned late in the half and then went out early in the last period with severe leg cramps. Whittenton was the Pack's big hope to keep the great receiver, Raymond Berry, in check. Berry caught just one pass while Whittenton was in operation but he nailed nine against rookies Willie Wood and Dick Pesonen and three went for touchdowns.

FOUR TD PASSES

Actually, the Colts never scored while Whittenton was balancing off with John Symank, Hank Gremminger and Em Tunnell. The Colts got off to a 14-0 lead at the end of the first quarter and it was 21-7 at the half. The third-quarter mark score was 24-14. John Unitas threw four touchdown passes - one a one-yarder to Alex Hawkins, and three to Berry on strikes of 45, 21, and 16 yards. Hawkins ripped up the middle in the closing seconds for the last TD. The Packer offense rolled up 462 yards, including 275 passing, and 26 first downs and on the basis of those figures alone it's a wonder the Packers lost. Quarterback Bart Starr, pinpointing his 23 completions in 32 attempts, kept the ball in a state of advance throughout. The Packers never punted all day as Starr applied the pressure. He completed 10 out of 13 in the first half alone. Starr's most useful weapon was Paul Hornung, who must have had his greatest day in football. The Blond Bomber did everything. He scored 18 points on two touchdowns, three extra points and a field goal, ran 17 times for 99 yards, caught five passes for 47 yards, threw one pass for 16 yards and kicked off five times. Jim Taylor, who picked up 56 yards in 20 trips, scored the first Packer TD just before the half on a four-yard blast for 21-7. Hornung's 10-yard jaunt made it 21-14 early in the second half. On successive series, Hornung cracked two yards for 24-21 and then kicked a 21-yard field goal to tie the score at 24-up. Other than the passes to Berry, who got "by" with the long reception, and eight to Lenny Moore, who was stopped safely away from the end zone, the Colts were simmered down to 95 yards rushing and two pass catches by Hawkins for 50 yards. Starr called 37 rushing plays, with Taylor getting 20 rides for 56 yards and Hornung 99 on 17. Bart had four intercepted - the last one setting up the Colts' last TD from the Bay 13. Taylor led the Bays in receiving with six catches while Boyd Dowler, Hornung and Gary Knafelc each had five and Max McGee three. The Packers controlled the show, what with 71 plays against the Colts' 56. The Bays rushed 38 times against the Colts' 26 and threw 33 passes - four more than the Colts. The Packers fumbled five times and lost two of them. It appeared that Starr would take the Bays home after the opening kickoff. On the second play Hornung ran beautifully for 31 yards to the Colt 46. Starr's pass to Knafelc for 18 and a throw to Taylor for 7 on the 17 had the Bays threatening but three plays later Starr's throw aimed at Knafelc was intercepted by Davis. The Colts then moved 89 yards in 11 plays for the lead TD. They made two first downs on rushing and a holding penalty gave them a first down. Unitas then threw to Berry for 10, to Moore for 9 and to Berry the last 45 yards for the TD. Berry took it on the 10 behind Wood and galloped in. Myrha kicked the first of five extra points for 7-0. Tom Moore returned the next kickoff and fumbled in mid-air on the Packer 24 and Myrha recovered. The Colts took quick advantage - with a garbage play. Tom Bettis and Willie Davis tossed Unitas back 10 yards in two plays and then the Colts were holding, setting the ball on the 50. The Colts were up to the task. Unitas handed off to Hawkins who went wide and lateraled back to Unitas. John threw over Wood's head to Hawkins who was brought down on the one. Two plays later Unitas threw to Hawkins for the TD and a 14-0 lead.

TOUGH BAPTISM

The Bays strung together four first downs on another scoring drive. Taylor ran 10 and Hornung, when he couldn't pass, ran 18 to the Colt 38. Starr threw to Hornung for 17 on the right side and three plays later Taylor lost the handle on a jumping catch of a third down Starr pass on the one. Hornung tried a field goal from the 32 but Sample blocked it. Pesonen tried his hand at guarding Berry and it was a tough baptism for the Duluth star who was converted to a defensive back earlier in the season. The Colts went 70 in five plays. Moore went 14 and Unitas passes to Berry for 6 and Moore for 25 to the Pack 25. After Hawkins made four, Unitas threw to Berry for the TD and a deathly 21-0 score. The Packers threatened again, moving from their own 32 to the Colt 36 where they lost the ball on downs. Starr passed to Dowler for 13 and Hornung for 15 to set up the Colts' defense comeback. With third and three to go, Taylor gained zero and Hornung lost one. Green Bay finally broke the ice after Brown punted, moving 47 yards in six plays. After two running plays gained five, Starr pitched to McGee for 42 yards on two straight passes to the eight. Taylor went four and then slammed the last four standing up for the TD. It was 21-7. The Colts just missed scoring before the half. A 31-yard run by Moore and Unitas' 15-yard run on a disputed play set the Colts up on the 15. Unitas moved his foot before coming away from the center and the Packers were drawn offside. The Pack, however, was penalized. Fortunately, time ran out when Unitas threw incomplete in the right flat. An interception by Bill Forester set up the Packers' second TD early in the second half. Bill grabbed Unitas' throw on the 45 and returned four yards to the 41. The Bays had a TD in four plays. The big gainer was a short flip to Taylor who picked up 20 to the Colt 17. Taylor ripped for seven and Hornung, with Jerry Kramer getting a good block, cracked to the left into the end zone and into the stands. That made it 21-14.

FORCED TO PUNT

The Colts were forced to punt and the Packers, after two first downers, lost the ball on an interception. The ball hit off Knafelc's out-stretched hands and bounced into Sample's hands. The two clubs then exchanged fumble recoveries. Tunnell picked up Hawkins' fumble and a few moments later Braase recovered Taylor's fumble on the Pack 21. Four plays later, Myrha booted a field goal from the 31. The Packers didn't waste around. Starr threw two straight passes to Dowler for 41 yards and then hit Taylor for 11 and Dowler again for 18 to the six. Taylor ripped four and then Hornung went over behind Fuzzy Thurston. It was 24-21. The tough Packers made the Colts fumble again and Starr went to work, throwing seven straight passes, including shots to Knafelc for 13, 16 and two, one to Hornung for 5. After Hornung's reception was broken up on third down, Hornung made a field goal from the 21 to tie the score. The Packers had performed what seemed the impossible. The Colts started from their own 28 and moved 24 yards to the Pack 48 in three plays. Unitas pitched to Berry for 8 and then Ameche just missed a first down. Unitas threw long to Berry, but he caught it out of bounds on the 10. With a foot to go on fourth down, Unitas crossed up "reason" and it worked for a 24-yard pass to Moore in the right flat to the Packer 15. After Hanner hurled Unitas back a yard, the Colt QB hit Berry on the 10 and he zoomed into the end zone for a 31-24 score. The Packers started new hope with 3:49 left from their own eight after the kickoff and Taylor ran 12 yards in two plays to the 20. A holding penalty on the Pack set it back to the 9 and Starr passed nine yards on the 15. Boyd gambled on Starr's first down pass up the middle to Knafelc and intercepted. It might have been a touchdown, if he has missed. Hawkins scored on the first play from the 13. That was about it. Starr tried two long bombs and the second was intercepted. And the Packers had split with the champs.

mighty proud of the way they played, offensively and defensively," Lombardi said, adding: "We lost that game on four basic plays because of inexperienced personnel." "I felt sorry for those two rookies (Willie Wood and Dick Pesonen, who relieved veteran Jess Whittenton). It was the pressure out there. Any other game and they would have been all right. But they did as well as they could." The Colts were quick to take advantage of Whittenton's successors and four touchdowns were scored in their area, with Raymond Berry, one of the best ends in the business, catching 10 passes. The game proved some more to Vince: "We're a good football team. They showed it when they came back. There isn't a player on this team who thinks we can't beat the Colts." The coach called Paul Hornung's performance "great" and pointed out that "the touchdown he scored when he went into the stands was a perfect play. There was no stopping it." Hornung slanted three yards outside his own tackle, with Jerry Kramer cleaning up the linebacker. Nobody put a hand on Paul and he wound up in the stands. Lombardi praised Starr: "He was hitting and he was mixing up the counts. We used a lot of quick counts (snaps) and it helped. He never lost a yard passing." Lombardi was downright proud of everybody on the team which, to a man, would like to play the Colts again - perhaps in a playoff. Colt Coach Weeb Ewbank admitted to being a bit puzzled. "We couldn't contain the Packers here and we won and up in Green Bay we contained you and lost," he explained, adding: "I'm sure the Packers played a better game here than they did against us in Green Bay." Asked about the loss of Whittenton: "Yes, we took advantage of that situation," Weeb explained, "but when something's open we will go to that spot immediately. We try to do the expedient thing." Ewbank said it was strictly John Unitas' call on the fourth down play that gave the champs a first down on the Packer 15 in the last five minutes. The Colts had a fourth and one situation and the crowd was on its feet. "I told John to either sneak or pass. It was his choice, not mine," Ewbank said. Unitas gambled by throwing out in the right flat to Lenny Moore who ran 24 yards...The Packers returned to a wonderful welcome at Austin Straubel Field Sunday night. A crowd estimated at 2,000 cheered the players and coaches as they stepped off the plane. It was a great gesture of confidence on the part of the fans and the Packers appreciated it...Whittenton wasn't the only casualty Sunday. Guard Fred Thurston sprained his ankle and Bill Quinlan injured his shoulder. Jim Temp, replacing Quinlan late in the third quarter, caught Unitas for a six-yard loss on his first play...The crowd cheered Hornung - but not for his yardmaking. The versatile Packer back injured a middle aged woman when he went flying into some field bleacher seats early in the fourth quarter. When she was helped from the park a few minutes later, Hornung ran from the bench to the stands near the goal line and offered his apologies to her. The crowd gave Paul a fine hand. "I think my helmet hit her head," Hornung said...The Bears had the game well

They sat in a group and made as much noise as possible. When the field announcer said "and the rest of the Packers" on the introduction, a Colt writer mocked "and the rest of the Miami Seahawks."

COACH PROUD OF PACKERS

NOV 7 (Baltimore Sun) - Before yesterday's game Tony Canadeo, one of the Green Bay Packers' all-time greats, said the Wisconsin squad was too young to threaten the Colts' hold on the Western Division title. After the game, Tony, now on the board of directors of the Packers, said: "I told you they were too young, but I was wrong. They came of age today. Any team that can overcome a 21-point deficit against a squad like the Colts is matured."...VINCE LOMBARDI AGREES: In the coaches' room, Vince Lombardi, head man of the Packers, paraphrased Canadeo's remarks: "We lost, but I'm proud of my boys. They played a great game and never gave up and you have to play a great game against a team like the Colts. I don't want to take anything from the Colts, but if Jesse Whittenton had been able to play, the score might have been different. The Colts picked on Whittenton's replacements (Dick Pesonen and Willie Wood). That they (the Colts) were able to see the weakness and exploit it is a sign of a great club." The Green Bay players were sad but not bitter about the loss to the Colts. They felt they played a good game and with some breaks here and they could have won it. Willie Davis, who starred on defense, said, when congratulated for his play: "Thanks. But it wasn't good enough." But Jim Ringo, All-Pro center for the Packers, had more to say about his teammates..."THIS IS A GREAT TEAM": "This is a great team," he remarked as his eyes swept the dressing room. "Look, we are much smaller physically than the Colts, but these boys want to play football and make up for their size with drive and desire. It's no use kidding ourselves, however, the Colts are a great team, too."...ROOKIES WERE EXPLOITED: Red Cochran, assistant coach, moaned about the fourth touchdown passes over the rookie defenders' heads, "Without those passes, the Colts wouldn't have been in the game," he stated. Jim Taylor, the hard running fullback, was a little too tired to say much but he did offer: "The Colts are a great team, but so are we."

Sports Cocktail: 1st TD on 6 Plays

Darkest Moment? Loss Of Football on Downs

DARKEST MOMENT? LOSS OF FOOTBALL ON DOWNS

NOV 8 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - The darkest moment for the Packers in Baltimore Sunday? John Unitas had just thrown his 100th touchdown pass for a 21-0 Colt lead with only 4:27 gone in the second quarter. The Packers took the next kickoff and moved from their own 32-yard line to the Colt 36. It was fourth down and two to go. A field goal wouldn't help with that deficit. Bart Starr picked out Paul Hornung for a slash at left tackle but lost a yard. It was the Colts' ball. This was the blackest moment, indeed. It seemed as if the Colts were ready to go on and break the game open. On top of that, the Packers received a bad officials' call on that fourth down play - one that actually Comeback 'Kickoff'—This interception by Bill (Bubba) Forester (71) marked the start of the Packers' bristling second half comeback at Baltimore Sunday. Picking it off in front of Colts' startled

Alex Hawkins (25), he returned it to Baltimore 41, from where Packers scored in four plays, chopping Hosses' lead to 21-14. They subsequently vaulted into a 24-24 tie before losing, 38-24. (AP Photo)

should have given the Packers a first down. A personal foul was called on the Colts. Ordell Braase took a sock at Bob Skoronski and the officials ruled that the "hit" was placed by Braase after the play. Thus, the Colts took the ball and were penalized 15 from the line of scrimmage. Phil Handler, line coach of the Bears, told about the play between halves. "I just happened to see it. Your tackle (Skoronski) put a good block on Braase and he (Braase) just got mad and hit your guy. He did it right away - not after the play," Handler explained. While the moment was smoggy when the Colts took over on their 21, the Packers didn't know it. They had a touchdown 10 plays later. Jess Whittenton went back into action at this point, and the Colts lost four yards in four trips. Bill Quinlan slammed Unitas back four and two pass plays were mussed up. The Colts delivered the first punt of the game after 24 minutes and the Packers now were six plays from that elusive first touchdown. The first teedee, a 57-yard move, came with no great strain. Look: Play 1 - Hornung hit left tackle for four yards. 2 - Jim Taylor made one on a pitchout around left end. 3 - Bart Starr passed to Max McGee on the left side for 13 yards. 4 - Starr passed to McGee for 29 yards up the middle to the Colt eight. 5 - Taylor leaped over center for four yards. 6 - Taylor crashed four yards into the end zone for the touchdown. That was the fourth time the Packers had the ball. The first three times, Starr moved the club well into Coltland. After the opening kickoff, the Pack moved from their 20 to the Colt 15 in 10 plays - only to lose the ball on an interception. After the Colts scored the Bays moved from their own 20 to the Colt 25 in 12 plays and Hornung's field goal try was blocked. The next time the Bays moved from their own 32 to the Colt 36 where they lost it on downs. Drive 4 paid off in a TD. In all, the Packers had the ball for 11 drives and never punted once all afternoon. Ten of the moves were started in their own territory and on seven of them the Packers moved into scoring position. The brightest moment? When the Packers shook off that 21-0 pile of points and continued fighting.

'WE MADE THE MISTAKES,' LOMBARDI

NOV 8 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - Voting. Packer practice. Colts. Mistakes. Bobbles. Injuries. And the Cowboys. We're all mixed up today - between the election and the Packers and all the incidentals. You'll probably be reading this while listening to returns tonight, so we'll make it short and "light." If your candidate doesn't win, you have this consolation: Green Bay has a real fine representative in the NFL. Coach Vince Lombardi was still proud today of the Packers' rip-snortin' performance in losing to the Colts in Baltimore Sunday after looking at the game films. But he conceded this point: "We made the mistakes - a couple of interceptions and those fumbles, or bobbles. Guess they were more like bobbles - those things down on the goal line." The pictures, which were absolutely uncensored, also showed the Colts' great end, Raymond Berry, and that John Unitas take advantage of the missing Jessie (James) Whittenton. Willie Wood and Dick Pesonen had no luck trying on Whittenton's shoes. "We were out-personneled when Whittenton was out of there," Vince pointed out, with a short add: "We played good enough to win." Lombardi remarked along the way this morning that "anybody in this league can be beaten," and that somehow fit next Sunday's action in Green Bay and Chicago. The Packers play host to the winless Cowboys and the Bears will have the Colts as their guests. A Chicago victory would lift the Packers into first place in the Western Division - IF the Packers can unhorse the Cowboys. On the injury front, Lombardi felt that Bill Quinlan "is the worst." He hurt his shoulder and left the Colt game just before the end of the third quarter. It is not known yet whether he'll be ready for the Colt game. Jim Temp replaced Bill at Baltimore and caught Unitas for a six-yard loss on his first play. The other injured are Whittenton, who has pulled muscles; Paul Hornung, hand; and Fred Thurston, leg. Whittenton's status won't be known until the end of the week. Hornung and Thurston figure to be ready for the Cowboys. The Packers worked briefly this morning - enough to ease the bumps and bruises and then returned to hear a scouting report from Wally Cruice, who saw the Cowboy-Ram game last Sunday. Most of the Packer players, who hail from all parts of the county, voted by absentee ballot.

Hornung Can Break Hutson's NFL Record

HORNUNG CAN BREAK HUTSON'S NFL RECORD

NOV 9 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - Paul Hornung stands a good chance of breaking one of the oldest scoring records in league history - Don Hutson's single season mark of 138 points. The Packers' Blond Bomber, who was born the year (Dec. 23, 1935) Hutson broke into pro football in Green Bay, has piled up 83 points in the first six games, official NFL figures showed today. Hutson had 82 points at the end of six games in 1942. He rolled up his 138 markers in 11 games, which was the size of the schedule that war season. Hornung has a 12-game season going. Hutson rolled up totals of 16, 8, 15, 17, 2 and 24 for 82 points in his first six games. Hornung had 8, 16, 5, 23, 15 and 18 for 83. Peerless Don scored 10 touchdowns and kicked 22 extra points in those first half-dozen games. Hornung has seven touchdowns, 20 extra points and seven field goals. Actually, Hutson didn't kick a field goal until the final game in 1942 and that boot gave the Pack a 24-21 victory over Pittsburgh. It's interesting to note that Hornung's four field goals gave the Packer a victory over Pittsburgh 18 years later. Despite the fact that overall scoring has increased considerably at times in the league since 1942, the one-season scoring mark was approached just once in the last 18 years. Detroit's Doak Walker ripped off 128 in 1950 on 11 touchdowns, 38 extra points and eight field goals against Huston's 138 on 17-33-1. Hutson scored 117 in 1943 on 12-36-3 and Gordy Soltau of the 49ers and Bobby Walston of the Eagles are tied in the No. 4 all-time spot with 114 each. Steve Van Buren of the Eagles and Pat Harder of the Cardinals each scored 110. Huston never reached into the 100 bracket after 1943. The only other Packer to hit the three-figure mark was fullback Ted Fritsch, who won the league title with an even 100 in 1946. Hornung won the league scoring title last year with 94 points. The aforementioned Walston, now in his 10th season, ranks second to Hornung in the present scoring poll. He is 22 points behind in second place, with three touchdowns, 22 extra points and seven field goals for his 61 marks. The Packers have one other representative on the big scoring board. That would be the delegate from Louisiana - Jarrin' Jim Taylor, who has picked off seven touchdowns for 42 points. Taylor, of course, is a leader in his own category, rushing. Big Jim has forged into first place in ground gaining with 540 yards in 128 attempts for an average of 4.2. He was limited to 56 yards in 20 carries against Baltimore. Jim Crow of the Cards has 542 yards in second and Jim Brown of the Browns is third with 521. Hornung, with 99 yards on Baltimore, moved into sixth place with a 429 total and 5.4 average. Quarterback Bart Starr made his first appearance on the passing board, leaping from nowhere to 15th place - one notch ahead of teammate Lamar McHan. Starr hit 23 out of 32 for 259 yards at Baltimore last Sunday. He has a completion percentage of 58.3 on 42 out of 72 for 477 yards...Coach Vince Lombardi stepped up the Packers' practice tempo today in preparation for the Dallas Cowboy game at City Stadium Sunday. The game has extra special meaning because the Packers could use it as a springboard back into the Western Division lead. If the Packers win and the Colts lost to the Bears in Chicago, Green Bay will go into first place with 5-2. The Bears would have 5-2-1 and the Colts 5-3. The Packers heard a first-hand report on the Cowboys from Scout Wally Cruice. "They're ready to break loose against somebody and it could be the Packers," Cruice warned. He pointed out that the Cowboys have "an excellent running attack and their passing game could start to jell at any time." The Cowboys' aerial game might be waiting on Billy Howton, the onetime Packer pass receiver. Howton didn't join Dallas until the week before the league opener and he is just now coming back into mid-season form. The Cowboys have six other former Packers - Fred Cone, Tom Braatz, Nate Borden, Billy Butler, Mike Falls and Don McIlhenny.

PACK ALUMNI TO GATHER FOR REUNION

NOV 9 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - Not so lithe as they used to be, greyer of hair and slower afoot but still eager for action, provided the opposition is no tougher than a thick steak, between 50 and 60 former Packers will assemble at the Beaumont Hotel Saturday night for the annual Packer Alumni reunion and banquet. As of today, a total of 49 former team members have registered for the event with several more expected to check in between today and "game time." Although the majority are now living in the Green Bay area, several will come from distant communities as far away as El Paso and Dallas, Tex. The round-up will include ex-heroes from 40 years ago as well as more recent stalwarts. Among the charter members will be Tubby Bero, John Des Jardins, Walter Ladrow, Al Petcka, Gus Rosenow, Carl and Martin Zoll. Other "pre-historic" Packers on hand will be Charlie Mathys, Hurdis McCrary, Red Smith, Jugger Earp, Arnie Herber, Verne Lewellen, Boob

Packer 'Alumni' Return—These are five of the seven former Packers, all of them starters, who will invade City Stadium in Dallas Cowboy silks Sunday afternoon to challenge their old teammates. From left: Nate Borden, Mike Falls, Billy Butler, Don McIlhenny and Tom Braatz. Bill Howton and Fred Cone will be the other ex-Packers in the Cowboy cast, with Howton also scheduled to start. Howton, with the Browns last season, ranks as the No. 2 pass receiver in Packer history. Kickoff for game, Packers' home finale, is set for 1:06. The Bays will be seeking 3-1 home record.

Darling, Weurtt Englemann and Whitey Woodin. Those coming the farthest distance are Stretch Elliot, who is en route from El Paso, Tex., and Fred Cone. The latter will be in a somewhat hostile position as a member of the Dallas Cowboys, who furnish the opposition for Sunday's home finale. Other out-of-towners will be Red Bultman, Bob Forte and Paul Kell from Milwaukee; Bill Kuusisto, George and Bud Svendsen from Minneapolis; Red Smith from Toledo, Ohio; Perry Moss from Montreal; Don Perkins, Chicago, and Harry Bullough, from Lansing, Mich. Also listed as attending are Charlie Brock, John Biolo, Tony Canadeo, Tiny Croft, Ted Fritsch, Ed Glick, Joe Laws, Walter LeJean, John Martinkovic, Nick Miketnac, Tom Miller, Ken Radick, Al Rose, Howie Reutz, Joe Secord, Champ Seibold, Pete Tinsley, Charlie Tollefson, Andy Uram, Red Vogds, Dick Weisgerber, Alex Wizbicki and Dick Zoll.

Will Cowboys Be 'Great?'

WILL COWBOYS BE 'GREAT'?

NOV 10 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - Will the Cowboys throw a "great game" at the Packers in City Stadium Sunday? Coach Vince Lombardi, in the process of looking over the league season one hot day last July, remarked: "The Cowboys will play two really great games - against us and the Giants." Unless you just moved in from Russia, that capsule comment needs little explanation. Lombardi and Cowboy Coach Tom Landry were coaching teammates with the Giants before they made their respective changes, Vince taking over the Packer fortunes in 1959 and Tom picking up the Cowboy reins a year later. Lombardi was the Giants' offensive coach; Landry handled the defense. Landry would especially like to beat Green Bay and New York. Fortunately, the Packers and Giants aren't back to back on the Cowboy schedule. The Cowboy-Giant tiff is carded in New York Dec. 4. They can breathe between the two big efforts. And if you think these coaches (they're really good friends) don't like to beat each other, how about their most recent meetings. A year ago, the Lombardi men played the Giants, with Landry on the staff, and the New Yorkers won both of them - 14 to 0 in the exhibition in Bangor, Me., and 20-3 in the league show in New York. Now it's 1960. The new Cowboys have won just one game thus far and came awfully close to winning another. The foes in those two games were (you guessed it) New York and Green Bay. Dallas downed the Giants in an exhibition and just missed beating the Pack in the non-league game in Minneapolis. The Packers and Giants battled in an exhibition in New Jersey last August and it was a treasured win for Vince...MOST DETERMINED: The Cowboys most certainly will come up with their most determined game of the season. Besides Landry, they have seven former Packers who would like nothing more than to kick the Pack out of the Western Division race. They are Billy Howton, Nate Borden, Billy Butler, Don McIlhenny, Mike Fallas, Fred Cone and Tom Braatz. There was an indication yesterday that the Cowboys are sharpening their spurs. Larry Karl, the Cowboys' advance man who, by the way, was not wearing six shooters, indicated that Eddie LeBaron will start at quarterback instead of the flashy freshman, Don Meredith. The Cowboys were understood to have decided on rebuilding for the future and one of the key cogs will be Meredith, the Sammy Baugh-type passer who is stamped as a certain star. Young Don started last week against the Rams and completed nine out of 28 for 75 yards...END OF THE TRAIL: Tiny Eddie, an attorney, is nearing the end of the trail. He has surprised some of the best teams in his career, mostly with Washington, and Landry is hoping he can come up with a "great" performance Sunday. Karl also pointed out that LeBaron is getting the nod because of the "fine day" he had against the Pack in Minneapolis. He completed 11 out of 20 passes for 140 yards and one touchdown in the 28-23 battle. There's another Cowboy QB who can't be overlooked. That would be Don Heinrich, the former Giant and Lombardi pupil. Heinrich, sort of a QB coach, has attempted only 23 passes thus far and completed eight for 114 yards and two touchdowns. For the season, LeBaron has attempted 134 and completed 61 for 1,033 yards and seven touchdowns. Meredith has completed 13 out of 40 for 135 yards...The biggest question in the Packer camp revolves around the injured players. Three of them are in the near-serious category - Fred Thurston, leg; Bill Quinlan, shoulder; and Jess Whittenton, leg. Today's workout, a heavy one - with pads, may determine whether or not they'll be ready for Sunday. Andy Cvercko would replace Thurston, while Jim Temp backs up both Quinlan and Willie Davis. Willie Wood and Dick Pesonen can relieve Whittenton. They'd both probably like to get a shot after what happened in Baltimore last Sunday. Whittenton was injured and the Colts completed four touchdown passes in his general area, with Wood or Pesonen in action...Alex Hawkins, the Colts' halfback who was cut by the Packers last year, paid Lombardi a compliment in a story in the Baltimore News-Post Monday. Hawkins wrote that Lombardi told him he was doing him a "favor" by cutting him from the Packer squad during the training season. "He was high strung and so was I. He said some things to me and I said a few things back on the practice field. I was fighting myself and him, too. I realize the mistake I made in more or less fighting the head coach. Actually, he did me a favor," Alex said. Hawkins added: "I have nothing but respect for Coach Lombardi. What happened to me at Green Bay I brought on myself."

SIX EX-PACKERS TO START FOR COWBOYS HERE SUNDAY

NOV 11 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - Six of the seven former Packers with the Cowboys will get starting assignments at City Stadium Sunday. The seventh, Mr. Fred Cone, who married a Green Bay girl, will be out to make it seven, with his extra point kicks. He's also a field goal kicker deluxe, topping the Packers' all-time field goal list, with 53 three-pointers. Three will open on offense - Billy Howton at right halfback and/or flanker back; Mike Falls at right guard; and Don McIlhenny at left halfback. The ex-Packers opening on defense are Tom Braatz at right linebacker, Nate Borden at left end, and Billy Butler at right safety. These seven have banded together for one big purpose - beat the Packers. Any one ex-Bay Cowboy could become a key figure in whipping the Pack but there must be a special category for the Rice Redhead, Sir Howton. Billy could really cause trouble. Howton is just now catching his wind. He reported the week before the league season and has caught nine passes for 170 yards and two touchdowns. He has been good and bad in the first six games, dropping most everything in some games and then catching everything in other battles. It's for certain Billy will bring his finger glue to Green Bay. Howton came to the Packers in 1952 and played seven years. Coach Vince Lombardi traded Howton to the Browns in the spring of his first year here for defense end Bill Quinlan and halfback Lew Carpenter. Quinlan has paid off handsomely in bolstering the Bay defense and Carpenter has been invaluable as an all-around threat. Howton played in Cleveland in '59 and then decided to retire. He threw off retirement just before this season and joined Dallas. Howton was a tremendous receiver during his Packer days. He broke two Don Hutson records - 1,231 yards in one season and 257 yards in one game, and pulled up second to Don in many other pass receiving departments. The big chore of gunning down Howton will be in the hands of fellow Texan Hank Gremminger and wily Em Tunnell. This will be Hank's first crack at Billy, other than a few plays in the non-leaguer in Minneapolis - two days after Howton reported. Former Giant Tunnell played against Howton when the Bays and Giants played here in '57. McIlhenny hopes to carry the rushing load. He has recovered from an ankle injury that slowed him down some and now has 55 carries for 203 yards. All of the ex-Packers are regulars except Braatz who shares right linebacker with Gene Cronin, the former Lion. Butler and Borden have been mainstays on defense, said Larry Karl, the Cowboys' publicity chief. Butler developed a nose bleed Tuesday while watching election returns and was taken to a hospital. The bleeding was stopped up and he's back to normal again...The Cowboys announced out of Dallas Thursday afternoon that Don Heinrich, the former Giant and Lombardi pupil, will start at quarterback. Eddie LeBaron had started the first five games and Don Meredith, the rookie star, opened the next two. This is a big assignment for Heinrich, who is a great admirer of Vince. Heinrich helps with the quarterback coaching in Dallas. The Cowboys will dress 38 players for the game. They are allowed to carry 43 on their active roster but must drop four off three days before each game. Due to an injury, the club's roster was down to 41. Taken off Thursday for this game were Gene Babb, fullback, Dick Klein, offensive tackle, and Woodley Lewis, end and back. In Lewis' place will be a feller who has always given the Packers trouble - Ray Mathews, the former Steeler pass catcher and rusher. Mathews will play left end behind Fred Dugan. The Cowboys' starting backfield will have Heinrich at QB, Howton and McIlhenny at halfbacks, and Walt Kowalczyk at fullback...The Packers worked out lightly today in the stadium. The Bays have at least five injured players but the most serious are Jess Whittenton, Bill Quinlan and Fred Thurston.

52 EX-PACKERS TO JOIN FETE

NOV 11 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - As of this morning, a total of 52 former Packers had accepted invitations to the annual homecoming here Sunday. A number of stars of other years have not yet been heard from, but Packer officials are hopeful that more will be in the fold by the weekend. Additional acceptances have been received from Lou Brock, Dick Deschaine, Ace Loomis, Veryl Switzer, Dave Zuidmulder, Buckets Goldenberg and Curly Lambeau, Jack Vainisi, Packer business manager, reported. Don Hutson will not be here. Vainisi said Hutson had called long distance with regrets, explaining that business commitments made it impossible to attend. Word has not been received from Clarke Hinkle, Johnny Blood and Cub Buck. The latter pair are regular returnees, but Buck fractured an ankle early in the fall, an accident which broke his long record of attendance at the Bear game. Lambeau, a founder and longtime Packer coach, is currently conducting a Saturday evening football commentary over a local television station. Goldenberg will also be a "working" member of the party, since he will be doing background color for a Milwaukee radio station during the Dallas game. The oldtimers will gather for dinner at the Beaumont Hotel Saturday night and will sit in a special section at the stadium during the game Sunday. They will be introduced to the crowd at halftime.

EXPLOSION? PACKERS TACKLE HUNGRY COWBOYS

NOV 12 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - The Packers will guard against an explosion at City Stadium Sunday afternoon. And maybe detonate one of their own. The Cowboys of Dallas have lost seven straight games. Some were lopsided but others were close and rough - like the 12-10 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals. Dallas is due for an eruption of points and murderous defensive play. If tomorrow is "Cowboy Day," the Packers will be in for serious trouble. The Packers will be helped and urged along by another sellout - the fourth straight 32,150 gathering this season. The audience will include nearly 60 Packer stars of other years for this "Homecoming" game. Kickoff is set for 1:05. Green Bay figures to win. The experts have selected the Pack as a 21-point favorite. That's too big a spread in view of the circumstances surrounding the game. Packer Coach Vince

Lombardi feels the Cowboys will play two "great" games - against Green Bay and New York. The Cowboys are coached by Tom Landry, former coaching teammate of Vince with the New Yorks. What's more, seven former Packers are in the Cowboys lineups and two of them still rank among the highest scorers in Packer history. Billy Howton, the Cowboys' end, scored 258 points on 43 touchdowns as a Packer and Cowboy Kicker Fred Cone counted 455 on 16 touchdowns, 200 extra points and 53 field goals. Cone is the Pack's No. 2 all-time scorer; Howton No. 7 - a notch behind Paul Hornung, who took the No. 6 spot last Sunday. Howton and Cone, who scored 713 points between them in their seven-year Green Bay careers, will be joined by former Packers Don McIlhenny, Mike Falls, Nate Borden, Billy Butler and Tom Braatz. Howton will start at flanker back, McIlhenny at left half, Falls at right guard, Borden at left end on defense, Butler at right safety and Braatz at right linebacker. The Packers, who play three tough games in the next 12 games (Cowboys Sunday, the Rams in Milwaukee the following Sunday and the Lions in Detroit Thanksgiving Day), picked up a few injuries in their loss to Baltimore last Sunday. Lombardi listed the three most seriously injured - Jess Whittenton, Fred Thurston and Bill Quinlan - as "doubtful." Chances are they'll be held out of action, barring a sudden cure. Thurston is the best bet to play. Loss of Whittenton hurt the Packers in Baltimore, what with John Unitas taking quick

Hesitating Touchdown — Baltimore Colt halfback Alex Hawkins (25) is hit by Packer halfback Willie Wood in end zone in first quarter at Baltimore Sunday. Ball popped into air but Hawkins grabbed it before it hit ground for a touchdown. Identifiable Colts are Buzz Nutter (50), Art

Spinney (63) and George Preas (60). Packers are Willie Davis (87), Bill Quinlan (83), Ray Nitschke (66), Henry Jordan (74) and Dan Currie (58). Colts won 38-24 and moved into first place in the Western conference of the NFL. (AP Photofax)

advantage of the inexperience of rookie replacements Willie Wood and Dick Pesonen. Actually, all of the subs for the secondary are rookies. The other possible replacement is Dale Hackbart, the former Wisconsin quarterback and defense back. Andy Cvercko plays behind Thurston, and Jim Temp backs up Quinlan. Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor, the Packers' twin blasters, also are hurting but Lombardi said they'll be playing. Hornung's top replacement, Tom Moore, developed a muscle pull. Quarterback Bart Starr worked up a 426-yard, 24-point offense against the Baltimores and he'd like to match or better that yardage vs. Dallas. While the backs are hurting, pass receivers Max McGee, Boyd Dowler and Gary Knafelc are fit. Looking to give the Packer offense special trouble will be Borden, who will be up against Forrest Gregg, Butler, and Braatz. Butler will be on McGee and anything thrown on the Packers' left side. Up front of Butler will be Braatz. The Packers' eager defense will look at Don Heinrich, at least to start. Heinrich is the former Giant who will be making his first start. Behind him will be the star rookie, Don Meredith, and veteran Eddie LeBaron. Tiny Eddie was here with the Redskins last year but didn't play due to injuries. Howton will be a real problem if he displays some of his mid-'50 form. He'll be guarded by Hank Gremminger, with Em Tunnell staying close. McIlhenny has been sharing left half with L.G. Dupre, but Don will start and maybe go the distance if he's gaining. Cone is the Cowboys' third fullback and has yet to carry the ball. He can kick three pointers from up to 50 yards...The Cowboys flew into Green Bay about noon today. They were scheduled to drill in the stadium this afternoon. They are headquartered at the Northland Hotel...The Packers have a chance to move into first place in the Western Division Sunday. They would have to beat the Cowboys and the Bears would have to beat Baltimore to lift Green Bay into the front seat. Go you Packers and Bears!...Washington has scored fewer points than the Cowboys, with 94 against Dallas' 104. Dallas has a good running attack but passing has been a problem. However, the Cowboys expect to make the aerial fireworks go off Sunday. Besides Howton, the Cowboys have Ray Mathews on the active list for Sunday. Mathews always gave the Pack trouble as a Steeler...The Cowboys' kicking off is handled by Dick Bielski, the former Eagles, and ex-Colt Dave Sherer does Dallas' punting. Sherer ranks third in the league with a 45.1 average.

Taking Tickets, Too—You've heard about the busy halfback who counts the house and takes tickets, too. The Packers' all-around Paul Hornung, shown stepping out of the stands, really wasn't up there to check the gate. He dove into the stands head first when he roared three yards for the Packers' third touchdown and couldn't stop running. He leaped rather than hit the steel fence. An unidentified fan and Official Chuck Sweeney help him down. Colts are John Sample (44) and Big Daddy Lipscomb. Hornung scored 18 of Packers' points in 38-24 loss.

PLAQUE UNVEILING PACKER HOMECOMING HIGHLIGHT

NOV 12 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - A bronze plaque honoring Earl L. (Curly) Lambeau and past presidents of the Packer Corp. will be unveiled during halftime ceremonies as part of the Packer Homecoming at City Stadium Sunday. The plaque, to be presented to the Stadium Commission by the corporation, will later be placed permanently on the structure. F.L. (Jugger) Earp, who will be master of ceremonies for the homecoming festivities, will present the plaque to City Atty. Clarence Nier, who will accept in on behalf of the commission. Present plans call for its installment on the wall of the ticket offices. The plaque contains the names of Lambeau and six former club presidents, including the late A.B. Turnbull. Dr. W. Webber Kelly, E.R. Fischer, Russell H. Bodga, Ray E. Evrard and Leland H. Joannes. On behalf of the Packers, it expresses appreciation for the accomplishments of all through the years in creating, building and maintaining the team...WAS PRINCIPAL ARCHITECT: Lambeau, founder with George W. Calhoun of the club in 1919, was the principal architect of the team as well as one of the pioneer builders of professional football. He was its first captain and coach during the early sandlot days as well as a star halfback and he served as head coach from its entry into the NFL until the end of the 1949 season. During this coaching tenure, Curly built and piloted the Packers to six world and one division championships. As a player, he was active for 11 seasons, playing his last game in 1929, although he did not function as a regular in his final year...TURNBULL FIRST PRESIDENT: Curly was one of the first advocates of the forward pass as an offensive as well as a box office weapon and in his best playing days one of the finest passers in the game. Throughout his coaching career, the aerial attack was one of the Packers' principal attack weapons. In his later years, in addition to being head coach, Lambeau also served simultaneously as vice president and general manager of the corporation. A.B. Turnbull, who died recently, was president from 1923 to 1927. It was he who formed the corporation, served as its first president and placed it on a firm foundation. He also remained a member of the executive board for a quarter of a century. Turnbull was succeeded by Ray Evrard and Dr. W. Webber Kelly in 1928 and 1929, respectively. Dr. Kelly, who died in 1951, was head of the club when it won its first championship and remained as a member of the board and team physician until his death...PRESIDED DURING CRISIS: He, together with Turnbull, Calhoun, Lambeau and Jerry Clifford, were known as the "Hungry Five," the close-knit group of enthusiasts who nursed the club through its rocky beginnings. Joannes, who took over from Dr. Kelly in 1930, had the longest tenure of any club president, serving continuously for 18 years. He headed the Packers during its first crisis in the early 30's when a series of bad breaks and the Great Depression threatened to engulf it, kept the corporation solvent and saw it again on the road to prosperity. E.R. Fischer, who died in 1958, succeeded Joannes and continued in office through 1952. Like Joannes, Fischer presided during a time of crisis when the NFL was engaged in a hot war for survival with the postwar All American Conference...SOUND FINANCIALLY NOW: Fischer directed a fund drive that raised over $100,000 and pulled the club out of its last financial difficulty. Since then there has never been any need for public appeal for funds and the Packers today are considered one of the most financially sound franchises in professional sports. Russell H. Bodga was president from 1953 until his death in office in 1958. During the last years of his term, failing health forced him to turn most of his duties over to assistants but he remained as corporation head until he died early in 1958. He was succeeded by the present executive, Dominic Olejniczak.

PACKER ALUMNI RETURN SUNDAY

NOV 12 (Green Bay Press-Gazette) - Because people of Green Bay and indeed of Wisconsin have an enormous pride in the Green Bay Packers, it is always a pleasure for them to meet with former members of the club. Sunday will be Packer Alumni Day at the City Stadium. The festivities will begin tonight when the old-timers will gather at the Beaumont Hotel for the annual Packer alumni reunion and banquet. That will, of course, be the occasion for a hilarious time. The former players will recall old times, former championships and a hundred incidents related to Packer victories, defeats or merely to plain Packer travel. Sunday at the field the visiting alumni will be introduced to the crowd. It's always a happy occasion. We are sure everyone in the stands will enjoy it and will join in welcoming the former Packers back to Green Bay.

Explosion? Packers Tackle Hungry Cowboys

Honors Packer Executives—This plaque, to be placed prominently at City Stadium, will be unveiled between halves Sunday as part of the Packers' homecoming celebration. It honors Earl L. (Curly) Lambeau and all past presidents of the corporation for their work in building Green Bay's most famous institution. It is a gift of the Packer Corp.

Helping Hand—Packers' Boyd Dowler (86), confronted by Colts' Bill Pellington (36), gets assist from Jim Taylor, who fends off Baltimore linebacker in Sunday's game at Baltimore. Dowler continued to Colt 35 for 13-yard gain and first down on last play of third quarter. Packers shortly scored, chopping Baltimore's lead to 24-21. No. 15 is Bart Starr, No. 81 is Colts' Ordell Braase. Dowler caught 5 passes for 80 yards, his best day of season.

Seven Hundred Thirteen Points—These two Dallas Cowboys scored 713 points between them as Packers and they hope to turn the scoring table on Green Bay when the two clubs meet at City Stadium Sunday afternoon. Billy Howton, left, counted 43 Packer touchdowns for 258 points while Fred Cone, the Cowboys' specialist kicker, ranks as the Packers' all-time No. 2 scorer with 455 points. Each played seven seasons with Green Bay. Kickoff is set for 1:05.

L or M? Landry's Got the Secret—Either battle-tested Eddie LeBaron, left, or $100,000 rookie Don Meredith will start at quarterback for the Dallas Cowboys against the Packers at City Stadium Sunday afternoon. Coach Tom Landry reportedly is leaning toward LeBaron because of his performance against the Pack in their tight non-league battle at Minneapolis in September, won by the Bays, 29-23. Meredith, however, started last Sunday's game against the Los Angeles Rams.

Clutch Catch — Max McGee (85) of Packers cradles ball and simultaneously struggles from grasp of Colts' Milt Davis (20) en route to 29-yard gain on Bart Starr pass in second quarter of Sunday's game at Baltimore. Play carried to Colt 8-yard-line, set up Packers' first touchdown. McGee finished day with 3 catches for 55 yards. (AP Photo)

LIFE IN THE OLD BOYS YET

The Baltimore Colts and the New York Giants, a pair of elderly football teams that have been accused of complacency, played like discontented young Turks during the season's first crucial pro weekend and all but dismantled the Packers and the Browns

NEW YORK: TRIM, TIDY AND TELEPATHIC

THE WISE OLD New York Giants last week demonstrated that four coaches on the field are worth more than one on the sideline, and in the course of their demonstration they won their sixth straight victory over the Cleveland Browns 17-13.

They won this game calmly, meticulously and, above all, with professional efficiency. The Giants are thoroughly accustomed to the Cleveland offense. They seem as familiar as Paul Brown's messenger guards with each play the Cleveland coach sends in. By contrast, Charlie Conerly, the elderly Giant quarterback, used a simple but effective armament of some six plays to peek away at the inflexible and confused Cleveland defense. Had he been able to pass with his accustomed accuracy, the score might more clearly have reflected the difference in the quality of these two teams on this snowy, cold afternoon.

Twice early in the game Conerly missed Giant receivers open for touchdown passes. Thereafter, he probed steadily at the Cleveland ground defense, throwing rarely. He has been crippled by the football equivalent of a tennis elbow for several weeks and is only now at the stage he would normally reach after the second week of practice.

"He did a wonderful job," said Al Sherman, the Giants' bright young offensive coach. "He was changing the signal at the line of scrimmage at least 50% of the time and he was hitting their weak spot every time."

The principal Cleveland weakness is a curious inflexibility, both on offense and defense. The Giants, on running plays, have used their halfbacks most of this season; for this game Conerly time and again called on Mel Triplett, the big fullback, who responded by gaining 137 yards on 24 carries into a Cleveland defense bemused by the halfback fakes. Then, late in the game, when Cleveland somewhat tardily adjusted to the off-center bolts of Triplett, Conerly sent Frank Gifford sliding outside the flanks. Sometimes, for the sake of variety, Conerly sent Triplett wide; this play, designed to take advantage of the quick, invariable reactions of the well-schooled Brown linebackers, saw Triplett feint at the center, then veer outside the tackle. The play succeeded almost every time it was used.

The Cleveland touchdown came in the third quarter, following a Giant fumble on the Giant 13-yard line, and it put the Browns ahead 13-10. Then Conerly, on a calm, beautifully sustained drive, took the Giants 80 yards in 14 plays for the touchdown that won the game. The sequence of his play selection on this march exploited every Cleveland weakness and shows clearly how well the Giants were prepared for this particular game and how befuddled the Cleveland defense had grown.

First, Conerly sent Triplett thumping straight ahead to remind the Browns of their vulnerability in the center of the line. Then he faked to Triplett, whirled and threw a short pass wide to Frank Gifford, good for a first down. ("There are pockets in the Cleveland pass defense," Sherman had said before the game. "There are zones in which it is hard for them to cover. If Charlie could throw the way he usually does, we could exploit all of them. We'll probably have to stick with the short ones.")

Conerly went back to Triplett again, sending him over guard on a trap play for six yards. The Cleveland defense squeezed in again, and the gray, calm Giant quarterback shifted his attack outside the tackles, first with Gifford, then with Triplett on the play that feints at the center of the line.

Early in the game Conerly had been successful with a draw play—a fake pass and late handoff to the fullback—using Triplett; now he used the same call but handed the ball to Gifford, and the unsuspecting Cleveland defense was victimized for 12 yards. He passed to Kyle Rote, incomplete, to remind the Browns that he could still throw short; then, audaciously, he used the draw play again and Triplett whipped through a wide avenue in the middle of the Cleveland line for 16 yards.

This put the Giants on the Cleveland 24, and Conerly punched away three times inside the Brown tackles; then Triplett, on the feint, veered to the outside of the left tackle and went to the Cleveland six.

Not once had Conerly gone outside the Cleveland ends; with the Brown defense pulled in and tight, he sent Gifford on a wide sweep around right end for the touchdown.

The entire march was impressive, but it is the more remarkable when one considers with what a limited attacking force Conerly engineered this touchdown. The Giant backs are sound, hard runners but none of them is likely to break away for a long run and none did on this drive. Conerly's rusty passing precluded anything more than the two passes he threw. He used what he had—and that included one of the strongest blocking lines in football—superbly well.

With the best pair of running backs in football—Jim Brown and Bobby Mitchell—and the league's leading passer in Milton Plum, plus receivers with speed and agility, the Brown offense could not move consistently at any time. The 11 players who toiled without relief all day for the Giants held the awesome Brown running attack to a pitiful six yards. Plum completed 13 of 25 passes, but nearly all of them were short; indeed, his total gain was only 89 yards.

So thoroughly did the Giant defense smother the Brown ground attack that Paul Brown, who sends in each play to his quarterback via a guard, forsook running almost completely in the second half. With football's best fullback and the game's most dangerous halfback available, he called only three running plays in the last two quarters. Plum passed, ineffectually, the rest of the time.

There are various reasons why the Giant defense achieved such mastery over the Browns. The defensive unit has played together so long that it operates almost as a single organism. Three of the key players—Harland Svare, Andy Robustelli and Jimmy Patton—are so thoroughly versed in their art that they are coaches as well as players. And Sunday the tough, well-trained team was edgy and mean after an early-week upbraiding by Head Coach Jim Lee Howell following a loss to the St. Louis Cardinals. Frequently, the four men in the first line of defense—Robustelli, Dick Modzelewski, Roosevelt Grier and Jim Katcavage—simply overpowered the Brown line to smother Plum or dump Brown and Mitchell.

But as important as any of these reasons is the Giants' remarkable anticipation of Brown plays. Gained by an exhaustive study of the Paul Brown pattern of play-calling, it was nearly perfect Sunday. Neither Jim Brown, on his drives up the middle, nor Bobby Mitchell, on his lightning sweeps outside the end, ever found his path unimpeded.

"We knew we had to execute," said Sam Huff, the middle linebacker, whose principal responsibility was dogging Brown. "They never show you anything new. But they do the old things so well that the only way you can beat them is by executing your defense better than they operate their offense."

Svare, who is the Giant defensive coach, calls the Giant defenses, then Patton and Robustelli make minor adjustments in their own provinces (the secondary for Patton, the line for Robustelli). Huff may, if the situation warrants, make more adjustments from his middle-linebacker post. All the adjustments are based on a sure knowledge of the unvarying habits of the Brown offense; the Giants closed the middle to Jim Brown on short-yardage plays, went wide to meet Mitchell on the third and long yardage plays and, in general, interposed roadblocks in every avenue the Browns explored. The result was frustrating for the 52,872 spectators in Cleveland, and for the Cleveland players, who seemed convinced that they were up against a foe blessed with telepathic powers.

The 11-man Giant defensive unit played the entire game without substitution. After it was over, bull-necked, thick-bodied Dick Modzelewski lay furiously chewing gum on the training table in the dressing room while the team physician, Dr. Francis Sweeney, stitched shut a gaping cleat wound between his fingers.

"I got stepped on," he said when the stitching job was finished. "I did not notice it until I saw all the blood. Then I showed it to Sam and said, 'Look, My hand's cut open.' He said, 'Shove it together and keep pushing on in there.' So I did."

Jim Lee Howell, the Giant head coach, studied the game statistics and his face broke suddenly into a wide, happy grin.

"Hey," Huff called to him. "That makes the Arkansas gentleman laugh, hey? You hear the heads poppin' out there today?"

Howell, a big, easygoing man who seldom berates his team, nodded. "I didn't hear any last week," he said. "You played your game today." He turned away from Huff. "That's what won, brute force and head popping. But we always play best against the Browns. I don't have to talk this team into playing against the Browns. They like to beat the best."

A STAMPEDE OF COLTS

THEY'VE REALLY GOT the pressure on them. We have one loss, but they have two." The speaker was Fullback Jim Taylor of the Green Bay Packers and he referred to the Baltimore Colts. The Packers, leaders of the Western Division with a 4 and 1 record, were in Baltimore to play the Colts Sunday, and the Colts, as every Baltimorean knew, were off to a slow 4 and 2 start in quest of their third straight league title. The thick, gloomy sky covering the city the day before the game seemed symbolic. "Sunday," warned one local man, "must be one of those days for the Colts. Otherwise, they are through as champions."

The Colts were grimly incommunicado on Saturday, holding morning practice in secrecy. The Packers flew in after noon and were chipper as breakfast hostesses as they chattered their way through drills in Memorial Stadium. Coach Vince Lombardi, who had patched up the Packers and inspired them into a surprising 7 and 5 record last year (they had been a horrible 1-10-1 in pre-Lombardi 1958), arrived smiling. Rosy-cheeked Dominic ("Call me Ole") Olejniczak, a realtor who serves as payless Packer president, beamed becomingly at anyone who would look back at him, though he privately admitted to butterflies. The players were confident: one of the Colt losses was a 35-21 defeat administered by the Packers at Green Bay in early October. True, the Packers were outgained (245 yards to 435), but they had played alertly and aggressively, intercepting four passes by Johnny Unitas and grabbing two Colt fumbles.

This last Sunday, however, the law of averages (or maybe it was the law of irony) caught Green Bay. This second game was almost an exact reverse of the first. This time the Packers outgained the Colts (426 yards to 404), but the Colts intercepted four passes by Bart Starr and grabbed two Packer fumbles to win 38-24.

In retrospect, one could see that the Packer pattern of defeat was set shortly after the Colts kicked off. With Halfback Paul Hornung sweeping right end and Taylor and End Gary Knafele receiving, the Packers moved to the Colt 15. There, however, on third down and with eight yards to go, Colt Halfback Milt Davis intercepted a pass meant for Knafele. Davis caught the ball on the two and ran it out to the 10—far enough out so that Johnny Unitas felt free to pass. To the screams of the usual full crowd of 58,000, Unitas began throwing to the outside of the oncoming Packer line, first to End Ray Berry on the left, then to Halfback Lenny Moore, flanked to the right.

Unfortunately for the Packers, Jesse Whittenton, their experienced defensive right halfback, had to leave the game (he returned only briefly in the second half). Whittenton had slipped on the stadium turf and pulled a muscle in Saturday's practice, and now he had aggravated his injury to the point where it caused him pain. "He just couldn't run," Lombardi said afterward. "From the way things looked, maybe we should have kept him in." In Whittenton's place, Lombardi used two rookies, first Willie Wood, then Dick Pesonen. Neither was ready for the assignment of handling Berry and Halfback Alex Hawkins. Before the game was over, Unitas had thrown four touchdown passes in their direction. "To put a rookie in, and to put him in against Berry and Unitas, and in Baltimore, too, well, that's too much pressure," Lombardi said. "Of course," he added quickly, "that's to take nothing away from Berry and Unitas."

In any event, when Whittenton went out and Wood came in, the Colts had the ball, second and one on the Packer 45. Unitas set about immediately to exploit his good fortune. He fell back behind a bushel of blockers, faked to Berry breaking inside ("to draw the halfback in," Unitas explained later), paused, then hit Berry, who had cut back to the sideline, on the 10. Completely alone, he caught the ball and scored.

The Colts suddenly struck again. Steve Myhra kicked off to the Packers. Halfback Tom Moore, the Packers' first draft choice for 1960, took the ball in the end zone and headed out. But at the 20 he was met so hard that the ball squirted from his hands. It landed on the 24, where Myhra, of all people, pounced on it.

The Packers dug in. They slammed into Unitas. Then the Colts lost 15 for holding. All of a sudden, the Packers had the Colts back on the 50, third and 36 yards to go. Then Unitas, who did nothing wrong all afternoon, called a pass play known as "the flea flicker."

Unitas handed off to Fullback Billy Pricer on what looked like a draw. Pricer ran toward the line, then lateraled back to Unitas. Meanwhile, Hawkins, who had faked the defensive man out of position by pretending he was going to block for the run that Pricer never made, sprinted down the left sideline. "I went down until I didn't think Johnny could throw that far," Hawkins said. "I slowed down, then I went running after it again, like an outfielder misjudging a fly ball." Hawkins lunged for the ball, caught it and fell forward on the one. Two plays later he scored on a pass from Unitas.

The Colts kept up the tempo. Ordele Braase and Johnny Sample raced into the Packer backfield to block a field-goal attempt by Hornung. The Colts took over on their own 30 and moved to the 21 where Unitas passed to Berry in the end zone. It was the 100th touchdown pass of Unitas' NFL career.

Green Bay got a touchdown when Starr passed twice to End Max McGee, and Taylor tore through the line from the four.

The Packers continued to fight back in the third period. Bill Forester intercepted on the Colt 40. "Unitas said he just didn't see the linebacker," Coach Weeb Ewbank said. Taylor, carrying and receiving, brought the ball to the 14, where Hornung ran around left end for the score.

The Colts were forced to kick from their 27. Wood took the ball on his own 27 and slithered and dodged his way to the Colt 30 as the crowd groaned. But there was a flag on the play. The Packers were penalized for a personal foul and put back on their own 13. Sample intercepted. The Colts lost the ball on a fumble, but then got it right back when the Packers fumbled. The Colts stalled and settled for a field goal, making the score 24-14.

Still Green Bay came back in the final period. Starr hit Taylor and End Boyd Dowler down the middle. Taylor carried to the two, and Hornung dove in for the touchdown. Five minutes later, Hornung, the league's leading scorer, made it 24—all with a goal from the 21. The Packers, who had been down 21-0 in the second quarter, now had it tied. But the Colts had Unitas and Berry and Moore, and the Packers were without Whittenton.

With the crowd urging him on ("C'mon, Johnny, get us one! Just one!"), Unitas began throwing low line drives to Berry and Moore. From the Packer 16, Unitas hit Berry on the sideline at the eight. For one frozen moment Berry appeared to stand still as Pesonen dove at him, but at the last instant Berry twisted away and ran down the line for the tie-breaking touchdown. That play was the game. "He wouldn't have done that on Whittenton," Ewbank said later, breaking into a smile.

Behind 31-24, only two and a half minutes left, Starr passed to Knafelc, but Halfback Bob Boyd, who hadn't been doing too well until then, intercepted and ran the ball to the Packer 14. The crowd screamed its approval, and so did Colt Backfield Coach Charlie Winner, on the phone up in the press box. "That," said Winner, "makes up for the boners he made."

On the first play Hawkins took a handoff and ran straight through the Packers. The kick was good, and the Colts led 38-24 with only 1:54 left.

Superfluously, the Colts intercepted again. This time it was Davis who took the ball on the Colt 28. There was not time left to score again. The crowd, like a college cheering section, counted the closing seconds—"Five! Four! Three! Two! One!"—as kids ran out on the field to hail their heroes.

The most mistakes

In his office Ewbank sipped a Royal Crown Cola as he accepted congratulations. "They had a little trouble with Berry," he said, "and Hawkins made a fine catch." He exulted over the flea flicker. "I had that in high school," he said. "It isn't worth a damn when it doesn't work!"

"Both teams played a fine ball game," Ewbank went on. "They're tough—we couldn't contain them up there. But the team that makes the most mistakes loses." Did this win, asked a reporter, mean that the Colts would win another championship? Ewbank frowned. "If I knew that," he said, "it would save me a hell of a lot of gray hairs. All I'm thinking about is the Bears." The Colts play the Bears Sunday in Chicago, and outside in the dressing room, where the players were slapping one another on the back, someone had chalked on the blackboard, FIVE TO GO—BEARS NEXT. It seems like a good bet.
